

Here are some examples of recommendations made in recently published impact assessments:

As for the rights of individuals, communities and peoples to be consulted

To Government Authorities:

As per current legislation, we recommend the State conduct a consultation process in good standing with affected communities and before the start of the project.

To the Company:

We recommend companies refrain from entering into agreements with indigenous communities before they are properly consulted by the government.

As for the right to land and territory

To Government Authorities:

We recommend that the State faithfully implement the Mining Code, which provides for...

To the Home State of the Company:

We recommend that the victims of the investment project have access to justice in the country of origin of the company responsible.

In general

To civil society organizations:

We recommend that civil society ensures capacity building for members of affected communities by organizing training sessions on their human rights and how to enforce them.
